About Me

I am a gameplay programmer with experience in gameplay programming, VR development, Front-end development and quality testing. I am passionate about creating immersive and interactive experiences for users. I am proficient in C#, C++, HTML, CSS and JavaScript and currently learning React and nodeJs. Interested in working in the games industry to gain more experience and increase my knowledge in the programming languages. I am curious and driven, always eager to learn new technologies and improve my craft.

Experience

AUG 2023 – PRESENT

Technical Support / Firmware Tester | Drunk Deer, Volunteer

At Drunk Deer, I am involved in testing the firmware for the keyboard utilising testing methods such as smoke testing to verify the stability of the new firmware by testing the changes, sanity testing to verify the proper function of the critical features, and functional testing to confirm that all firmware specifications were met.

My other role includes acting as a liaison between the customers and the development team, providing technical support and detailed feedback on firmware issues to drive improvements and enhancements.

These combined provides a complete experience for new users as well as existing users of our products, ensuring that customers are always happy and satisfied.
